

Straight From the
Dentist's Mouth:

Are Dental Veneers For You?

By Andrew T.
McCormick, DDS

Are your teeth crooked, chipped, or stained? Embarrassed to smile? A cosmetic dentist can restore your self-confidence with porcelain veneers: a less invasive, more pleasing alternative to crowns. With veneers, most patients can enjoy a bright, beautiful smile.

Veneers are thin shells that are permanently bonded to your teeth. Because porcelain refracts light in the same way as tooth enamel, veneers appear pleasantly natural. Veneers resist stains, so your smile retains its great looks. And, porcelain is nearly as durable and easy to care for as your natural teeth. With proper attention, veneers will keep your smile dazzling for many years.

Fitting and applying veneers requires a series of visits to the dentist's office. The bonding process is simple and comfortable. Although cosmetic dentistry is not covered by dental insurance, most dentists offer payment plans.

Your dentist can answer all your questions about porcelain veneers, and have you smiling brighter in no time! You heard it straight from the dentist's mouth.
